'DISTURBING' DISCOVERY

POLICE BELIEVE BODY PARTS FOUND IN A MISSISSAUGA PARK WERE SEVERED IN THE LAST FEW WEEKS — STORY, PG. 2

A police search dog is put to work at the banks of the Credit River in Hewick Meadows Park in Mississauga after police discovered a woman's severed head on Thursday. Investigators said they also found a severed human foot in the area the previous day. "It's certainly disturbing," Peel Regional Police Acting Insp. Randy Cowan said. Search on for more body parts after 'grim' find

Credit River. Police scour park and river inch by inch after hikers' discovery

Dozens of Peel Regional Police officers scoured a Mississauga park for more human remains on Thursday after the discovery of a woman's severed right foot and head in the Credit River.

Officers used old hockey sticks with the blades cut off to sift through tall grass and bushes after the discovery at Hewick Meadow Park, near Mississauga Road and Eglinton Avenue West.

Ontario Provincial Police helicopters were dispatched, in addition to the marine unit. Cadaver dogs searched the river and surrounding parkland.

The park was closed to the public and the search called off as night approached, but it was expected to resume early Friday.

"We'll be looking for the entire victim," acting Insp. Randy Cowan said.

Hikers found the right foot, severed at the ankle, floating near the bank of the Credit River south of Eglinton on Wednesday. Judging from its condition, it's likely it was detached within the past few weeks, Cowan said.

Police searchers found the head on Thursday on the riverbank, about a kilometre north of where the foot was recovered.

The size of the remains suggests the victim was an adult, Cowan said. Police concluded the foot was a woman's because the toenails were brightly coloured with yellow polish.

DNA tests are underway to match the body parts. But "common sense tells us this is most likely related," he said. "Without a cause of death we can't call it homicide, but certainly foul play — there's definitely something amiss."

"It's a grim discovery any time we get these calls. It's certainly disturbing," Cowan said.

Investigation

- Police can't say yet if the body parts were placed at the banks or transported by water from some other point on the river.
- Anyone who witnessed anything suspicious while walking in the area over the past couple of weeks is urged to call police.
- Officers are also sifting through missing person's reports, to see if there's a link.

Lawsuit. Staffer wins wrongful dismissal case

A Rona assistant manager has won his lawsuit against the company after he was sacked for the actions of some employees, who broke company rules to help a wheelchair-bound man get to the second floor of a Rona store without wheelchair access.

Kerry Barton wasn't present when co-workers put together an improvised "elevator" to hoist a wheelchair-bound colleague to a training session on the second floor of a Rona store in Barrie.

No one was hurt, but when Rona head office learned of what had happened, two employees were fired and others disciplined with demotions, pay cuts and warnings for violating safety rules.

Barton was fired for failing to prevent the incident and later sued Rona for wrongful dismissal. An Ontario court recently decided in his favour, ordering the home-construction chain to pay 10 months' salary and benefits, amounting to about $58,000, plus legal costs. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

What keeps Ford behind the wheel?

Driven to distraction. Not even brother Doug knows why the mayor won't use a driver

Mel Lastman and David Miller were driven mayors. Why Rob Ford won't scooch over to work from the passenger seat is a mystery to Lastman and even to Ford's councillor brother.

"A driver is absolutely essential for the mayor of a big city — it's crazy not to have one," Lastman said in an interview Thursday as Coun. Doug Ford vowed to break his brother's now-famous grip on the wheel.

Lastman had a car and driver at his disposal for the 31 years he was mayor of North York and then Toronto. He said it's impossible to prepare for vital meetings while navigating traffic.

"What if you're preparing on your way to some big meeting and you hit — well, let's just say something terrible happens. And where do you park?"

Lastman's admiration for civic-funded livery had its limits, however.

In 2001 he convinced council to scrap the fleet of six Chevy Caprices and drivers at councillors' disposal. The auditor-general said they cost taxpayers $80 a trip, more than $300,000 a year.

Ford's refusal to be driven — aides go straight to his passenger seats — made headlines after he was photographed reading work papers while driving on the Gardiner Expressway. Asked if it was him, the mayor shrugged: "Yeah, probably. I'm busy."

Scolded all round

The driving-while-reading controversy overshadowed Ford's news of a business mission to Chicago; prompted calls for a driver from Toronto police who campaign against distracted driving; and got Ford scolded by media outlets, including ABC World News' The Mix.

On Thursday, Coun. Ford told Torstar News Service he has been bugging his brother since late 2010 to let staff members drive so he can focus on work. The councillor has been pushing the mayor harder since Tuesday's photo embarrassment.

The mayor's response was "what he says all the time — 'yeah, yeah, yeah,'" Doug Ford said. "But we'll make it happen one way or another. It's beyond the point of ridiculous. There might be a little bit of dust-up, but that's OK, we'll get it done."

Asked why the mayor is so stubborn on the point, Coun. Ford said: "I don't have a clue. I really don't know."

Toronto's This is London on Richmond Street, left, and Earls on King Street have had their loos shortlisted for the annual Canada's Best Restroom award. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

T.O. loos let you go in style

Toronto has built some award-winning toilets, but does it have the whole package?

It turns out Toronto's washrooms aren't all crap, either, as two are shortlisted for the annual Canada's Best Restroom award.

After finding and rewarding treasured washrooms in the United States for 11 years, restroom supplier Cintas is on its third annual search for Canada's best place to, um, rest.

The two shortlisted loos — modern and sleek at Earls on King Street, and boudoir chic at This is London on Richmond Street — face tough national competition, including a fancy Victoria porta-potty. The other finalists are a professional skills centre in Quebec and Vancouver's Georgian Court Hotel.

What wins the judge's approval? After a peak level of clean, style wipes out sanitation.

Earls' caters to the trendy and germ-wary. A wave of a hand and water flows automatically from the taps. Simply rising from the throne drains it all away. There are also disposable seat covers.

Heavy wooden stall doors ensure privacy. But for customers like seven-year-old Savannah Rose, the winning feature is the bright red "occupied" that appears once a stall is locked, "because then people know," she said.

The loo at This is London is less washroom, more restroom, with a lounge space in the club's women's quarters softly lit by chandeliers surrounded by pipes — relics from the space's industrial past.

Ride for Rob. Cheeky site lets you pedal mayor slim

Mayor Rob Ford wants you to get fit.

Or at the least the cartoon version of him does.

The mayor is now the face of a new tongue-in-cheek campaign called RideForRob.com to promote the benefits of cycling outdoors.

The website features a rough image of Ford cycling his way across the city in crumpled slacks. Visitors to the site are asked to "donate" their commute time spent biking and watch as Ford's waistline gets smaller and smaller.

The quirky initiative is a collaboration between Duke's Cycle, a bike shop located at Queen Street West, and DentsuBos, a Canadian ad agency. It comes on the heels of the mayor's much lampooned and highly publicized "Cut the Waist Challenge."

RideForRob.com screen grab.

"Using the Rob Ford analogy was just topical and we needed a character, and the hoopla about the lose weight campaign was a perfect contrast," says Michael Cranwell, general manager of Duke's Cycle. TAKARA SMALL/METRO

Don't expect another balmy winter

Winter is still five months away, but one thing is almost certain — it's not going to be like last year.

The best guess is that Toronto will have a milder and less snowy winter than average years, but far closer to normal than last year's record-breaking warmth.

"It's too early to make a forecast," said David Phillips, Environment Canada's senior climatologist. His educated guess? "It will feel brutal compared to last year." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Historic attempt. Girl, 14, ready for weekend swim across Lake Ontario

Annaleise Carr is trying to make history. When she gets into the water Friday evening in Niagara-on-the-Lake, the 14-year-old will attempt to become the youngest person to swim across Lake Ontario.

She has a team of 23 people behind her — a doctor, sailors, lifeguards and her coach. Marilyn Bell, who made the first crossing at age 16, is now 75 years old and also expressed her support through her daughter, who emailed Carr.

Stacked against her is the wrath of the open water and darkness of Lake Ontario; a lake that has swallowed swimmers twice her age and spit them out broken. The swim is one of the toughest in the world.

In the past, swimmers have spoken of the challenge of darkness when it descends on Lake Ontario, but Carr stays positive even about that. "Night swimming is so different than during the day," said Carr. "It's a lot less distracting."

Positive, but not naive — the team doctor, Mark Ghesquiere, has put Sick Kids on alert in case of problems.

Past swimmers have found the biggest battles involve mind over body. Earlier this year, 42-year-old François Hamel abandoned the swim after injuring his left shoulder. In August 2011, Greg Willoughby, 41, had just one mile left to go when his whole body gave out and he couldn't keep himself afloat any longer.

Just 13 at the time, Carr was still too young to complete the swim across Lake Ontario — but not too young to start training for it. She ramped up her regular training in September and has been preparing ever since.

Carr passed the 18-kilometre test run required by Solo Swims Ontario, saying that she felt like jumping back in the water. The day before that swim, she did a 10-km race.

Olympic doc will be chief medical officer in 2015

When Dr. Julia Alleyne marched into London's Olympic Stadium during the Games' opening ceremony, she looked up at the rows of seats, overwhelmed at being at one of the world's largest sporting events.

It was Alleyne's fifth Olympics, but her first as the Canadian team's chief medical officer. The London Games were also a test run for her next job — serving as chief medical officer for the 2015 Pan Am Games in Toronto, her hometown.

In London, she was responsible for co-ordinating care for all Canadian athletes and accredited team members, including coaches. That meant supervising a team of 65 doctors, monitoring every Canadian athlete's health and watching for symptoms of illness that could spread.

In 2015, she'll co-ordinate all medical services, from anti-doping efforts to emergency care, and will serve as chief medical officer for athletes from every country.

Labour. Province previews legislation to freeze teachers' wages

The Ontario government has taken its battle with teachers to a new level, laying out its threatened legislation to freeze their wages for two years and short-circuit any strikes or lockouts.

Education Minister Laurel Broten previewed the bill with just 15 days to go until her Sept. 1 deadline for teacher unions and school boards to negotiate deals with no pay increases as the province fights a $15-billion deficit.

"Time is running out," Broten said Thursday. "As a government we cannot sit back."

Premier Dalton McGuinty has threatened to recall the legislature early from its summer recess for a vote on the bill if contracts are not reached in time to avoid $473 million in teacher pay raises that would automatically take effect starting next month.

"I don't believe the average Ontario worker would expect to get a 5.5 per cent pay increase after taking the summer off and refusing to negotiate," Broten said in a shot at teacher unions that walked away from bargaining with the province.

New Democrat House Leader Gilles Bisson said Broten's broadside was unnecessarily provocative when tensions are running high.

"I think it's most unfortunate the minister is trying to pick a fight," the MPP for Timmins-James Bay told reporters. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Proposed bill

- The bill — if passed later than Sept. 1, in what has been a fractious minority Parliament — would be retroactive to that date and claw back any pay increases and sick-day credits.
- The legislation would require the Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario, the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation and other education unions to agree to "substantially similar" terms in a wage-freeze deal already signed by the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association.

GOING A LONG WAY TO GIVE BACK

As a group of trekkers faced an arduous route through the Andes to Machu Picchu, they at least knew the first part of their challenge was already behind them: To come on the trip, they had to raise thousands of dollars for charity. Metro's Matt Kieltyka went along to discover why these travellers were so determined to change the world while they were seeing it.

Having conquered his fear of heights and raised thousands of dollars for Children with Cancer UK, Oliver Lewis is finally able to enjoy sunrise in the lost Incan city of Machu Picchu, Peru, on Aug. 3. MATT KIELTYKA/METRO

MATT KIELTYKA

One foot in front of the other. One step at a time.

It's a rule to live by for adventurers trekking through the Peruvian Andes.

When you're short of breath from the incredible altitudes and fatigued from hours of walking through intimidating mountainous terrain, sometimes the trick is to just keep going. Take enough small steps and you'll eventually reach your goal.

Nottingham, England, resident Oliver Lewis, 28, experienced that on a recent trek through the remote Lares Valley and on the classic Inca trail to Machu Picchu.

Even when a very real fear of heights threatened to stop him in his tracks — no thanks to a cow inexplicably and stubbornly resting on a narrow ledge high above the rainforest — Lewis was able to shimmy around the beast and over the vertigo-inducing trail, albeit while clinging onto his guide's walking poles for dear life.

One step at a time. It's a mantra his entire family is now intimately familiar with. Lewis's five-year-old nephew, Thomas, is on a much different kind of journey, having been being diagnosed with leukemia in December.

Together, the family has been taking it one step at a time as Thomas endures chemotherapy to treat the disease. Those difficult steps are what brought Lewis to Peru and what forced him to face his fears head-on.

"I've been trying to get my head around what I can do to give something back. Not just to my nephew, but other people who are affected by that same disease," Lewis says.

The desire to do something positive in the face of his family's adversity led Lewis to Charity Challenge, a U.K.-based adventure tour company that requires clients to raise money for charity before taking off.

He instantly gravitated to their trip to Machu Picchu — the forgotten Incan city and one of the New Seven Wonders of the World.

"If a five-year-old can go through chemotherapy and all the nastiness that goes with it, then I can do my best to raise money for charity and conquer my fear of heights," he says.

"I can't imagine what my sister is going through, so for me this is a way of saying, 'I admire what you're doing and I want to do something to give back and show I can do more.'"

> "If a five-year-old can go through chemotherapy and all the nastiness that goes with it, then I can do my best to raise money for charity and conquer my fear of heights." Charity Challenge participant Oliver Lewis

With the help of his family, Lewis — who lost his father to cancer — had raised more than $8,500 for Children with Cancer UK by the time he embarked on his trip to Peru in late July.

Once there, he met a group of strangers all equally committed to and personally affected by a cause — whether that was overcoming cancer, arthritis, poverty or heart disease, or providing care for terminally ill patients.

Along the way, they pushed each other to complete sometimes-gruelling days through the vast Lares Valley and climb thousands of stairs up to Machu Picchu. They consoled each other when sickness or injury cut a hiker's day short.

The group donated school supplies to beaming children in remote villages and was greeted by descendants of the Incans, with their stunningly bright and colourful handwoven alpaca clothing.

His trek may be over, but Lewis is eager to retrace his steps, this time at Thomas's side.

Armed with new, awe-inspiring tales of Andean children, towering heights, ancient cities and adventure, Lewis is helping Thomas on his journey.

"That's the icing on the cake," Lewis says, smiling. "I can go home, show him pictures and give him funny, strange little Peruvian presents that he probably hasn't even imagined existed."

Witnessing disparity along the Inca trail

The South American country of Peru is a rapidly developing nation and a hotbed for tourism because of its coastal charm, lost Incan treasures, Amazonian allure and Andean peaks. But behind the big cities and strong agricultural traditions, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) says chronic malnutrition still exists to an alarming degree.

"Peru is an interesting place because it's technically a middle-income country with dropping levels of poverty," explains Meg French, UNICEF Canada's director of international programs. "Things look like they are improving, but the national figures are a little bit misleading."

Conditions for children in urban populations have been rapidly improving — with malnutrition rates below ten per cent — but indigenous, rural populations still have chronic malnutrition rates of about 30 per cent.

For an outsider it's a difficult concept to grasp, given how many families make a living off Peru's fertile farmlands. The problem, says UNICEF co-ordinator Deisy Moscoso, is that those families often sell their crops for profit and restrict their own children's diets to soups.

Moscoso is based in Cusco, a sprawling Andean city renowned as the capital of the Incan empire, where more than a million tourists pass through annually on their way to Machu Picchu. But beyond the city boundaries, many of the indigenous Quechuas still lack the knowledge to properly feed children under the age of three, stunting their development.

"It's tricky because you don't see full-out malnutrition," says French. "Some of the children can look very healthy at first glance, but that doesn't mean they're getting the right nutrients and vitamins. On the inside, their brains may not be developing the same, and it affects everything from health to intellectual development." MATT KIELTYKA/METRO

Towering mountains and thin air made for a difficult journey through the Peruvian Andes, but also offered unforgettable sights. MATT KIELTYKA/METRO

1 Lianne Azzopardi.
Charity: Cancer Research UK

"All my friends go on party holidays and I really didn't want to do that. I wanted to do something that made more of a difference. I had already signed up to do a community action project, which is how I found out about Charity Challenge and why I ended up on this trek. Like many people here, I did it for cancer research because cancer seems to affect everyone. My grandfather died of cancer, my grandmother survived it and my friend's mom just got the all-clear of cancer, as well."

2 Rosalind Havemann.
Charity: Leukaemia and Lymphoma Research

"I'm doing this trek in memory of my dad, who died of lymphoma seven years ago. I've raised (about $4,600) for Leukaemia and Lymphoma Research. It's also been a personal journey for me ... a bit of a midlife crisis. I've really loved doing the trekking and meeting everyone. Probably the best bit has been the really remote areas and meeting the local people. Peru has been a very special place in more than one way."

3 Steve Jackson.
Charity: Cancer Research UK

"I originally set out doing the trek for Cancer Research UK because my close friend's mother was taken by cancer ... and then one of the girls I worked with quite closely since I decided to do it was diagnosed with cancer. Six months after I decided to do the trek, my grandfather hadn't been well, and we couldn't quite figure out what was wrong with him. He was diagnosed with lymphoma cancer and died very quickly after being diagnosed. I wanted to do it for him as well, in memory of him."

Shooting may have been politically-motivated

Chick-fil-A. Alleged gunman may have been upset with conservative lobbying group's gay marriage stance, support of restaurant president

A man who volunteered at a gay community centre had a box of ammunition with him when he said "I don't like your politics" and allegedly shot a security guard at the headquarters of a conservative U.S. lobbying group, authorities said Thursday.

Floyd Lee Corkins II, was ordered held without bond on charges that he opened fire Wednesday inside the lobby of the Family Research Council, an influential conservative Christian group that has supported the president of the fast-food chain Chick-fil-A in his staunch opposition to same-sex marriage.

Symbolic gesture?

Authorities said Floyd Lee Corkins II carried 15 Chick-fil-A sandwiches in his backpack when he allegedly shot a security guard. What he planned to do with them is unclear.

Corkins also had 15 Chick-fil-A sandwiches in his backpack, authorities said. It was not immediately clear what he planned to do with them.

The shooting was swiftly condemned by groups across the ideological spectrum, including President Barack Obama and his Republican challenger Mitt Romney. The attack also tapped into deep divisions over cultural issues like gay marriage and drew finger-pointing about whether inflamed rhetoric on either side was to blame.

Psychological study. Alleged assassination attempt trial delayed

A Texas man charged with plotting to assassinate the Saudi ambassador to the United States will have to wait until next year for his trial as lawyers continue studying the conclusions of psychologists who have examined him.

On Thursday, an October trial date was moved to Jan. 7 for Manssor Arbabsiar to give lawyers more time to prepare for trial.

Defence lawyers are seeking dismissal of charges against Arbabsiar and the suppression of statements he made after his arrests, based in part on the findings of two defence mental health experts who concluded he suffers from bipolar disorder.

Arbabsiar was arrested Sept. 29 at Kennedy International Airport in what authorities say was a $1.5 million plot to kill the ambassador, Adel Al-Jubeir, in a bombing at his favourite restaurant.

Arbabsiar, a U.S. citizen who has lived in Texas for decades and holds an Iranian passport, is being held without bail.

Mental illness

A professor of clinical psychiatry said Arbabsiar's family members reported to him that the man has a history of extended episodes of depression interspersed with episodes of mania.

- He said he was told that Arbabsiar in 2010 was severely depressed, isolating himself in his bedroom and rarely getting out of bed except to pace and chain-smoke.

Yao Ming joins worthy cause

Yao Ming, China's top basketball star, looks at an elephant killed by poachers in Samburu, northern Kenya, during his visit there on Thursday. Ming is visiting Kenya on his first visit to Africa to film a documentary aimed at reducing poaching attacks against elephants and rhinos. The two animals are coming under increasing attacks by poachers who sell rhino horns and elephant tusks to buyers in Asia who acquire the animal products as a sign of affluence. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alberta. Woman lost in bush faces off with bear, finds shelter in cabin

An Alberta woman lost in northern bush for two weeks faced off with a bear, ate berries and sipped water from streams before she found a remote hunting cabin she believes saved her life.

Rhonda Cardinal recalled Thursday how she broke a small window to get into the cabin.

Inside, she found more water, canned food and socks for her blistered and infected feet.

"I figured it was a matter of life and death," said the 42-year-old woman, now resting at home with her parents in Calling Lake, a small community 200 kilometres north of Edmonton.

Cardinal said she spent a couple of nights at the cabin before she felt strong enough to trek again and look for help.

On Wednesday, after a short walk, she came across a road and within minutes waved down an oilfield worker driving by in his truck. He helped her climb inside and, through tears, she told him her story.

Cardinal said positive thoughts and prayers helped her get through the ordeal.

Ecuador grants asylum to WikiLeaks founder Assange

Diplomatic tussle. Britain insists it still intends to arrest the outspoken ex-hacker and extradite him to Sweden

A masked supporter of WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange holds up a sign outside the Ecuadorian embassy in London on Thursday. SANG TAN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

He's won asylum in Ecuador, but Julian Assange is no closer to getting there.

The decision by the Latin American nation to identify the WikiLeaks founder as a political refugee is a symbolic boost for the embattled ex-hacker. But legal experts say that does little to help him avoid extradition to Sweden on sexual assault allegations.

Instead, with British officials asserting they won't grant Assange safe passage out of the country, the case has done much to drag the two nations into an international faceoff.

"We're at something of an impasse," lawyer Rebecca Niblock said. "It's not a question of law anymore. It's a question of politics and diplomacy."

The silver-haired Australian shot to international prominence in 2010 after he began publishing a huge trove of American diplomatic and military secrets — including a quarter-million U.S. Embassy cables that shed a harsh light on the backroom dealings of U.S. diplomats.

Amid the ferment, two Swedish women accused him of sexual assault; Assange has been fighting extradition to Sweden ever since.

The convoluted saga took its latest twist on Thursday, when Ecuadorean Foreign Minister Ricardo Patino announced that he had granted political asylum to Assange, who has been holed up inside the small, coastal nation's embassy since June 19.

He said Ecuador was taking action because Assange faces a serious threat of unjust prosecution at the hands of U.S. officials.

Ecuador's decision was warmly received by the 41-year-old Assange, who watched as it was announced in a live televised news conference from Quito. In a statement he praised Ecuador's "courage."

British Foreign Secretary William Hague said Britain will not allow Assange safe passage to Latin America. "There is no legal basis for us to do so," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Political gambit?

- Assange and others have expressed fears that the Swedish sex case is merely the opening gambit in a plot to make him stand trial in the United States. — something disputed by both Swedish authorities and the women involved.
- Patino said he tried to secure guarantees from the Americans, the British and the Swedes that Assange would not be extradited to the U.S., but was rebuffed by all three.

Military helicopters. 4 more bodies found in Mount Kenya crash

A Kenyan wildlife official says the final four bodies from a Ugandan military helicopter crash that killed seven people have been retrieved off of Mount Kenya.

Simon Githau, a senior warden with the Kenyan Wildlife Service, said that the final four bodies from Sunday's crash of a military helicopter were found on Thursday. Three bodies were found earlier.

Three military helicopters travelling to Somalia to help in the fight against al-Qaida-linked militants crashed on Sunday on Mount Kenya. The other two crashes did not result in fatalities. A fourth helicopter made it to its destination.

Officials have not yet said why the helicopters crashed, though thick clouds and stormy weather were present Sunday around Mount Kenya, Africa's second highest peak. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Striking workers shot at by police in South Africa

Platinum mine. Armed with automatic rifles and pistols, police fire at a crowd of miners

South African police opened fire Thursday on a crowd of striking workers at a platinum mine, leaving an unknown number of people injured and possibly dead. Motionless bodies lay on the ground in pools of blood.

Police moved in on striking workers who gathered near the Lonmin PLC mine Thursday afternoon after urging them to give up their weapons and go home to their hostels and shacks. Some did leave, though others carrying weapons began war chants and soon started marching toward the township near the mine, said Molaole Montsho, a journalist with the South African Press Association who was at the scene.

The police opened up with a water cannon first, then used stun grenades and tear gas to try and break up the crowd, Montsho said.

Suddenly, a group of miners rushed through the scrub and underbrush at a line of police officers. Images broadcast by private television broadcaster e.tv showed officers immediately opening fire, with miners falling to the ground. Dozens of shots were fired by police armed with automatic rifles and pistols.

The gunfire from weapons apparently on full automatic ended with police officers shouting: "Cease fire!" By that time, bodies were lying in the dust, some pouring blood. Another image showed some miners, their eyes wide, looking in the distance at heavily armed police officers in riot gear. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Familiar images

- The shooting recalled images of white police firing at anti-apartheid protesters in the 1960s and 1970s, but in this case it was mostly black police firing at black mine workers.

Judgment day for Russia's Pussy Riot band

One of the key ideas behind the Russian punk provocateur band Pussy Riot was the supremacy of an idea over personality — thus the balaclavas that made the members both unrecognizable and fearsome.

But the three members who were jailed in March following a guerrilla performance denouncing President Vladimir Putin in Moscow's main cathedral have unwillingly emerged as vivid — and very different — characters. They await a verdict Friday on charges of hooliganism motivated by religious hatred.

One is a daring performance artist with a notorious part in a filmed orgy just days before she gave birth. Another is a poet and environmentalist with pre-Raphaelite looks. Rounding out the trio is a quietly cerebral computer expert, who has applied her skills both to nuclear submarines and experimental art.

If convicted they could be sentenced to up to seven years in prison. The trial has attracted worldwide attention as an emblem of Russia's intolerance of dissent.

Nadezhda Tolokonnikova, Maria Alekhina and Yekaterina Samutsevich came together several years ago in a confrontational art group called Voina (War), which attracted notice with risqué stunts. The group painted a 65-metre penis on a St. Petersburg drawbridge — visible in much of the city when the bridge rose — and in 2008 staged an orgy in a Moscow museum as a mocking commentary on Dmitry Medvedev's imminent election as Russian president.

The three also took part in a less-publicized punk performance in 2009 at the trial against a prominent art curator in a Moscow court, singing "All cops are scum."

Voina's chief ideologist Alexei Plutser-Sarno said the three "performed courageously" with the art group.

Tolokonnikova, 23, who was heavily pregnant when she appeared in the museum orgy, is the main face of Pussy Riot.

"We were looking for genuine sincerity and beauty and found it in our punk performances," said Tolokonnikova in her final statement at the trial last week.

FOLLOW COVERAGE OF THEIR SENTENCING FRIDAY AT METRONEWS.CA

Worldwide protests

On Friday, activists in more than a dozen cities, from Moscow to Toronto, are expected to take to the streets at 2 p.m. Moscow time (1000 GMT), an hour before the judge is to issue the verdict. The protests are being co-ordinated by defence lawyers.

- The women were little known before their brief impromptu performance in February. Dancing and high-kicking, they shouted the words of a "punk prayer" asking the Virgin Mary to deliver Russia from Putin, who was set to win a third term in March.

Supporter. 'Stay strong' McCartney tells Pussy Riot on eve of sentencing

Paul McCartney has sent support to Pussy Riot's members in Russia.

In a letter released Thursday, the former Beatle urged three members of all-female band Pussy Riot to "stay strong" and called on authorities to allow them freedom of speech.

McCartney said that "I and many others like me who believe in free speech will do everything in our power to support you and the idea of artistic freedom."

Other celebrities have also spoken out. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Facebook aids in arrest

Alleged sexual assault. Social networking staff alerts police to sexually charged conversation between a 25-year-old man and a minor

A man has been arrested after Facebook staff alerted police to sexually charged conversations the man allegedly had with a 13-year-old girl.

It's the latest sign that social media sites are becoming proactive in fighting suspected crime: monitoring online chats and alerting police instead of waiting for a subpoena after the fact.

Facebook officials contacted Winnipeg police last month to report that a 25-year-old man had struck up conversations with the teenager, and that the discussions had turned sexual, police said Thursday.

Facebook staff also said the man and girl had arranged to meet. Police investigated and allege the man sexually assaulted the girl at that meeting.

The fact that Facebook staff tipped off police came as good news to Beyond Borders, a Winnipeg-based group that fights child sexual exploitation.

"(Social media) is certainly being used over and over, by those who have a sexual interest in children, to carry out Internet luring ... but to hear that they are monitoring this and that they are being very proactive, I think it's terrific," Beyond Borders co-founder Roz Prober said.

Police did not identify the suspect. He faces charges of sexual assault, sexual interference and luring at an upcoming court appearance and has been released until then.

Prober believes social media services should develop ways to prevent child exploitation before it happens.

"When they're designing something, they should put child protection in there as a priority, as part of the design." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andrew Dahlen, a multiple sclerosis patient, is the first Saskatchewan resident to fly to Albany, N.Y. to see if he can be part of a clinical trial to relieve symptoms of MS. LIAM RICHARDS/ THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan selects 1st person for MS trials

A Saskatoon man is going to the U.S. to see if he can take part in a clinical trial of the so-called liberation treatment for multiple sclerosis.

Andrew Dahlen is the first Saskatchewan resident to go to Albany, N.Y., for the final eligibility screening in a two-year, double-blind clinical trial.

"I think the possible benefit will outweigh the real risks of it. I'm terrified for going but I'm more excited," Dahlen, 28, said Thursday.

The province is putting up $2.2 million to have 86 Saskatchewan patients take part in the trial. All prospective participants are first screened by a neurologist to ensure they meet eligibility requirements. A successful candidate must be a Saskatchewan resident, under the age of 60 and not had liberation treatment.

Candidates then spend several days at Albany Medical Centre, where a final assessment determines whether they will be accepted into the trial.

The nature of the double-blind study means half of those participating will receive liberation therapy and half will get a placebo procedure.

The treatment is based on a hypothesis by Italian vascular surgeon Dr. Paolo Zamboni that a condition he dubbed chronic cerebrospinal venous insufficiency, or CCSVI, may be linked to multiple sclerosis. The theory suggests that narrowed neck veins create a backup of blood that can lead to lesions in the brain and inflammation. Liberation therapy involves opening up blocked neck veins.

The procedure is not offered in Canada.

Saskatchewan patients in the Albany trial will get follow-up care back home — something that hasn't been available to people who paid for liberation therapy in other places.

Saskatchewan Health Minister Dustin Duncan said that will change. The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Saskatchewan has approved an application to allow physicians at Radiology Associates of Regina to provide Doppler ultrasound to patients who have received CCSVI treatment out of the country. It's not an insured service. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fossil find

Groundbreaking dino discovery

A Nova Scotia man has stumbled upon what's being described as one of the most significant fossil discoveries in the province's history — a rib cage, backbone and the partial sail belonging to an extinct, sail-back reptile.

Another visit to the beach spot yielded another rare find: the skull from the creature, which experts believe lived 290 million to 305 million years ago.

The discovery will be on display at the Museum of Natural History in Halifax for two weeks starting Saturday. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ex-president of Penn State not in the clear: Lawyers

Spanier. The longtime university president felled by the Sandusky scandal has kept a low profile but not yet charged with a crime

More than a month after an explosive investigative report accused Penn State's ousted president of burying child-sex-abuse allegations against Jerry Sandusky, Graham Spanier has so far avoided criminal charges — unlike two of his former subordinates.

That doesn't mean he's in the clear, according to legal experts.

As attorneys for athletic director Tim Curley and retired vice-president Gary Schultz urged a Dauphin County judge Thursday to dismiss the case against them, Spanier remains vulnerable to criminal charges over his alleged role in a scandal that has shaken Penn State to its core, outside lawyers said.

Former FBI director Louis Freeh's university-commissioned report that accused the ex-president — along with Curley, Schultz and football coach Joe Paterno — of covering up a 2001 allegation against Sandusky could help lay the groundwork for a prosecution.

"The Freeh report, whose findings of fact and conclusions were not challenged by PSU, suggests potential liability for Spanier," said Paul DerOhannesian, an Albany, N.Y., defence attorney and former sex-crimes prosecutor who has been following the Penn State case.

Fellow defence lawyer Will Spade, a former Philadelphia prosecutor who worked on a grand jury investigation of priests about a decade ago, said if he worked in the attorney general's office, he would "seriously be looking at" a criminal case against Spanier.

A spokesman in the attorney general's office, Nils Frederiksen, declined to comment, citing an "ongoing and active investigation" into the Sandusky matter.

Japan mulls deportation of 14 Chinese activists

Disputed land. Dozens rally outside Japanese embassy in Beijing for protesters' release

Japan is considering deporting 14 Chinese activists arrested for landing without authorization on disputed islands in the East China Sea, as harsh criticisms and repeated demands for their release erupted Thursday in China.

The protesters had travelled by boat from Hong Kong to the uninhabited islands controlled by Japan but also claimed by China and Taiwan. They were arrested Wednesday after five of them landed on one of the island groups, known as Senkaku in Japanese and Diaoyu in Chinese.

Japanese police and coast guard officials were questioning the protesters in Okinawa, a nearby island state. Coast guard officials said Japan has to decide whether to pursue a criminal investigation or repatriate them by Friday night.

Chinese activists last landed on the island in 1996, and seven who were arrested were repatriated quickly.

China's state media on Thursday said Japan's handling of the activists is hurting the bilateral relations.

Crisis in Syria

Assad official denies claims that regime is crumbling

Syria's foreign minister defiantly dismissed rebel forces and their international backers on Thursday as incapable of toppling the military defending Bashar Assad's regime, even as condemnation grew over expanded offensives that activists say have claimed dozens of civilian lives in recent days.

Foreign Minister Walid al-Moallem's confident tone contrasted sharply with a series of recent blows to Assad, including high-level military and political defections and the ability of rebel guerrillas to stage bombings and abductions in the heart of the capital, Damascus. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New Taliban attacks heighten security concerns

Heavily armed Taliban fighters blasted their way into a Pakistani air force base with possible links to the country's nuclear program in a brazen assault that took two hours of fighting to put down, leaving a security officer and nine insurgents dead and underscoring the group's continued threat despite numerous military offensives.

Hours later, Taliban gunmen in northern Pakistan forced 20 Shiite Muslims off buses, lined them up and killed them, the latest in a series of sectarian attacks that the government has seemingly done little to stop. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Insurgents unleashed a wave of attacks Thursday that killed 28 people and wounded dozens in central and northern Iraq, the latest in a series of strikes aimed at undermining the government.

The bomb and shooting attacks made for the country's deadliest day in more than three weeks, rattling nerves as families prepared to gather for a holiday weekend. More than 120 people have been killed in violence across the country since the start of August, showing that insurgents led by al-Qaida's Iraqi franchise remain a lethal force eight months after the last U.S. troops left. Helicopter crash in Afghanistan kills 11

Conflicting reports. Taliban leaders say fighters shot down chopper, but U.S. officials refute bold claim as investigation into crash continues

Seven American troops and four Afghans died in a Black Hawk helicopter crash on Thursday in southern Afghanistan, the NATO military coalition said. The Taliban claimed their fighters shot down the aircraft.

The crash marked another deadly day for the U.S. in Afghanistan, less than a week after six American service members were gunned down, apparently by two members of the Afghan security forces they were training to take over the fight against the insurgency as international combat troops prepare to exit the country by the end of 2014.

The spike in American deaths and attacks by Afghan allies have stirred fresh doubts about the prospects for the U.S. plan to leave a capable Afghan government in place when most troops depart after more than a decade of war.

Spokesman Brig. Gen Gunter Katz said the NATO coalition is investigating the cause of Thursday's crash in Kandahar province, though U.S. officials said initial reports indicated it was not shot down.

Among the dead were seven American service members, three members of Afghan security forces and one Afghan civilian interpreter, said Jamie Graybeal, a spokesman for the coalition. He said there were no survivors of the crash. He declined to give any details on the mission of the helicopter, a UH-60 Black Hawk.

U.S. officials said three of the seven American troops killed were special operations forces — two Navy SEALS and a Navy explosives expert.

The officials spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to disclose the information.

Taliban spokesman Qari Yousef Ahmadi said insurgent fighters shot down the helicopter in Kandahar province on Thursday morning.

However, U.S. officials said initial indications are that it was not shot down, though an investigation has been opened. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity the investigation is ongoing.

White House spokesman Jay Carney said it was too early to determine the cause of the crash.

Thursday's crash is the deadliest since a Turkish helicopter crashed into a house near the Afghan capital, Kabul, on March 16, killing 12 Turkish soldiers on board and four Afghan civilians on the ground, officials said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Panic in India. Workers, students among mass-exodus in Bangalore

Thousands of panic-stricken Indians from the northeast were fleeing the southern city of Bangalore on Thursday, spurred by rumours they would be attacked in retaliation for communal violence in their home state.

Hundreds of students and workers from Assam state crowded Bangalore's main railway station to try to board trains heading out of the city, while officials tried in vain to assure them of their safety. People pushed and shoved and some climbed in through train windows to make it past the crush at the doors.

The exodus followed clashes in Assam in recent weeks between members of the indigenous Bodo tribe and Muslims that killed more than 50 people and left 400,000 in displacement camps. The violence has spilled to other states where Bodos and other ethnic tribe members from the poor northeast have migrated in search of jobs.

Those fleeing Bangalore said they had heard text messages had been circulating threatening attacks by Muslims.

Jagadish Shettar, chief minister of Karnataka state, met separately with Assamese and Muslim leaders Thursday in an effort to restore calm. Bangalore is the capital of Karnataka.

Shettar said no one had seen any threatening text messages and authorities were trying to find out who was behind the rumours.

He said police and security forces were on alert and telephone helplines had been set up to give a sense of security to people in the city.

Despite Shettar's assurances, many from the northeast said they felt insecure. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Waterboarding. Doctor denies experimenting on daughter for research

A U.S. doctor on Thursday denied allegations of waterboarding his 11-year-old stepdaughter as part of his research into near-death experiences.

"How could anybody do such a thing?" Dr. Melvin Morse said while awaiting the start of a preliminary hearing on felony charges of child endangerment and conspiracy.

Police suggested in a search-warrant affidavit that Morse may have been experimenting on his stepdaughter as part of his research by bringing her "to a possible near-death state from the simulation of drowning."

"I haven't done near-death research in 15 years," Morse said.

Melvin Morse DELAWARE STATE POLICE FILE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

He declined to comment specifically on the charges against him, referring questions to his lawyer.

Source of allegations

- The allegations of waterboarding came after Morse was accused of grabbing the girl by the ankle in July and, as her sister, 6, watched, dragging her across a driveway. He was arrested on misdemeanour endangerment and assault charges and released on bail.
- When the older girl was interviewed by police last week, she told investigators her father also had disciplined her by holding her face under a running faucet at least four times since 2009, a punishment she said her father called "waterboarding."

U.S. Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney said Thursday that he has never paid less than 13 per cent of his income in taxes during the past decade.

But he declined anew to release the records that would prove it.

"I did go back and look at my taxes and over the past 10 years I never paid less than 13 per cent. I think the most recent year is 13.6 or something like that. So I paid taxes every single year," Romney told reporters after landing in South Carolina for a fundraiser.

Romney has released his 2010 tax return and has pledged to release his 2011 return before the Nov. 6 election, but has refused to release returns from earlier years.

Democratic Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, citing an anonymous source, has charged that Romney didn't want to release any more of his returns because the Republican candidate had paid no taxes in some years.

"Harry Reid's charge is totally false. I'm sure waiting for Harry to put up who it was that told him what he says they told him," Romney said.

The Obama campaign's Lis Smith responded by telling Romney to "prove it."

"He has forfeited the right to have us take him just at his word," Smith said.

White House spokesman Jay Carney declined to comment on Romney's tax rate. He said Democratic President Barack Obama believes "the tradition for presidential candidates to put forward multiple years of their tax returns is a useful and valuable one. Not always comfortable."

Four Mistakes that can Cost You on Car Insurance

Keep your rates low by avoiding these costly mistakes.

The cost of car insurance is a major expense for most people, and rising rates often seem unavoidable. But an increase in your premium is not always something you can't avoid. Often, simple errors lead to over-paying for insurance. These four mistakes are the quickest way to see higher premiums.

Earning a traffic ticket. Tickets are one of the most common reasons that insurance rates go up. Many different traffic violations can be responsible for an increase. Speeding, running right lights and careless driving are all violations that result in insurance rates that are higher. It takes three years before the ticket is removed from your driving record.

Not shopping for rates before you buy a new car. People often find themselves shocked by the cost of insurance on their new car, but there's a way to avoid that. Every car comes with a different insurance rating, and some are pricier than others to insure. When you're considering options, get car insurance quotes on each possibility before you make a buying decision.

Failure to shop around at regular intervals. Many people avoid it because they believe it's a hassle, or think they can't get a better rate. This is one expensive mistake. People who take the time to shop around almost always pay less; and with internet quoting sites like InsuranceHotline.com, it's easier than ever.

Failing to take advantage of multi-policy discounts. What do your home and auto insurance have to do with each other? Well, if you insure them all in the same place, it could be quite a lot – of savings that is. Most insurance companies offer a multi-policy discount. If you don't have all of your policies in the same place, you could be missing out on some big savings on all of your policies.

Remember that the very best way to keep your insurance premiums low is to be a safe driver and shop around for better rates. Insurance quoting sites like InsuranceHotline.com can help by comparing your insurance rate against over 30 car insurance companies to find you a lower rate available for your driving profile.

It's not just about saving you money. Wait, it is.

Ikea to launch budget-hotel chain

Sweden. Furniture giant expected to open first hotels in Germany in 2014

Best known for its budget flat-pack furniture, Scandinavian retailer Ikea is planning to launch a chain of budget hotels in Europe.

The property division of Inter Ikea — the company that owns the Ikea intellectual-property rights — is planning hotels in 100 locations across Europe.

The first two hotels are expected to open in Germany in 2014. Other locations earmarked for hotels include Belgium, the Netherlands, the Nordic countries, Britain and Poland.

Inter Ikea, which already owns a handful of hotels in Europe since the 1990s, will operate the chain with another company. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maintaining philosophy

Although the hotel chain won't use Ikea's name or furniture, it will ingrain the Ikea philosophy of "good quality at a reasonable price," says Harald Muller, a Brussels-based business-development manager of Inter Ikea's property division.

- The hotels will have a Scandinavian "feel" because the interior will be made by Nordic designers, but aside from that, "guests won't really recognize Ikea in it," Muller says.

Triple-A. Moody's renews Canada's rating

Canada gets to keep its triple-A rating from Moody's Investors Service.

The New York-based agency said Thursday Canada's economic performance and the financial position of its federal government have held up well enough to maintain the company's top rating.

"Although the recession caused a reversal of the improvement in the debt ratios, they did not deteriorate as much as in most other Aaa-rated countries, are now on an improving trend, and remain compatible with the country's Aaa rating," the Moody's report said. Prior to the recession, Canada's federal government had been running budget surpluses for several years.

That ended after the Harper government spent heavily on infrastructure projects and other initiatives designed to boost the economy following the 2008-09 global credit crisis and recession. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chrysler recall

Nearly 1,700 Dodge Durangos affected

Chrysler is recalling nearly 1,700 Dodge Durango SUVs in the United States, Canada and overseas because the rear side air bags may not work in a crash. Chrysler said it knows of no crashes or injuries as a result of the problem. Most of the recalled Durangos are still on dealer lots. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Facebook shares hit new low as lockup period ends

Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg is ineligible to sell his shares in the company until November. Those eligible to sell stock on Thursday were the investors and directors who had participated in the May IPO, as well as Microsoft Corp., an early Facebook investor. KEVORK DJANSEZIAN/GETTY IMAGES FILE

Declining stock. Early investors of the social-networking site get the option to sell after ban is lifted

Facebook's stock plunged below $20 US Thursday after the expiration of a ban that had prevented some early investors and insiders from dumping millions of additional shares they own in the social-networking leader.

Firms ranging from Accel Partners to Goldman Sachs, Zynga CEO Mark Pincus and Facebook board members James Breyer, Peter Thiel and Reid Hoffman were among those free to sell stock they own, after the lifting of a ban known as a lockup period.

Eligible shares

1.91B

Only 271 million shares became eligible for trading Thursday, but by the time all the lockups expire, that will come to 1.91 billion.

If many of them took advantage of that, Facebook's stock could decline because the market would be flooded with nearly two-thirds more shares.

It's not yet known whether any of those investors had sold any stock because they have three business days to disclose any sales, said Sam Hamadeh, the CEO of PrivCo, which researches privately held companies. But many of them likely did, he said.

Thursday was only the first of several lockup expiration dates for Facebook's stock. The biggest one is coming in the fall.

Facebook's stock traded as low as $19.69 before bouncing back slightly. The shares closed Thursday at $19.87, down $1.33, or more than six per cent. Its initial public-offering price was $38 back in May.

The previous low during the day was $19.82 and the previous low for a close was $20.04, both reached Aug. 2.

Facebook's stock is likely to be volatile until the end of the year when the majority of the lockups expire. Hamadeh called them a "dark cloud on the horizon." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A PIXIE CUT, A WICKED ROAD TRIP AND THE DEATH OF AN ICON

THE LIST
Neil Morton
Metro

1 Hairgate. Miley Cyrus went all hairy on Twitter, posting a pile of pics of her new, dramatic pixie cut. Her tweets included lines like "Never felt more me in my whole life," "Someone just told me I'm prettier than Miley Cyrus" and "Feeling so happy in my skin." While her new style got mixed reactions, just watch pixie cuts come back. I'm getting one next week.

2 Sexting. I nearly dropped the F-bomb when I heard only now has the mainstream Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary added "sexting" to its latest edition. I mean, what the heck took so long? And, oh yeah, F-bomb — well, it's been finally added now, too.

3 Colour in Ryan Gosling. Colour Me Good Ryan Gosling, a new colouring-in book of the Hollywood hunk, is out. Touted as "the hottest colouring-in book of all time," it features 15 pages of Gosling in different poses and actions. So while you may not actually ever be able to touch Ryan Gosling in person, at least you can colour him in.

4 Sparkle. Whitney Houston's final role in the remake of the musical Sparkle can be seen starting Friday. The movie, which centres around three singing teenage sisters from Harlem who form a girl group in the late 1950s (Houston plays the mother), is dedicated to her memory. This role should be how she is remembered now, rather than how she died.

5 Olympics' closing. The amazing 2012 London Olympics ended with a psychedelic mashup ceremony including performances by the Who, Annie Lennox and the reunited Spice Girls (who averaged 116,000 tweets per minute during their performance, according to Twitter) ... and Kate and her brother-in-law Harry in the stands rocking out. Pure Gold.

6 Lakers are back. The Miami Heat's chances of repeating as NBA champions took a serious block with word the L.A. Lakers had acquired star centre Dwight Howard from Orlando. So let's see, the Lakers now have Kobe Bryant, Steve Nash, Howard and Pau Gasol. As Kobe said, this team is "locked and loaded to bring back the title." Better happen with this dream team assembled.

7 Ebook sensation. By taking the gamble to publish Finding Karla, on serial killer Karla Homolka, as an ebook rather than a hardcover book or long magazine piece, writer Paula Todd has changed the game of non-fiction publishing. Her "breaking news" ebook is a hit, holding down the top position on Amazon Kindle's non-fiction-singles bestseller list.

8 Aniston, take two. The woman whose heart was broken by Brad Pitt in 2005 will be walking down the aisle again, this time with Justin Theroux (her co-star in Wanderlust). They announced their engagement on the weekend after dating for over a year. Heck, they've already morphed into a clone couple, dressing alike. Ugh, just like Jen and Brad used to.

9 Cross-Canada Facebook. Trent University grad Greg Mountenay had the ultimate Canadian road trip this summer, visiting 300 of his Facebook friends across the country in a promotion sponsored by Canadian Tire while blogging about his adventures. I'm one airline/five-star-hotel sponsor away from going to visit some of my 600 Twitter followers.

10 K'naan. The Toronto rapper/poet/songwriter has announced plans to publish a children's picture book based on his life. When I Get Older: The Story Behind Wavin' Flag will be released in September and focus on how his family escaped their native Somalia during the 1991 civil war. This will be sure to inspire a whole generation of kids.

11 Helen Gurley Brown. The author of the iconic Sex and the Single Girl (1962) — sex and the city long before Sex and the City — died Monday at the age of 90. As editor of Cosmopolitan from 1965 to 1997, she was all about empowering modern women to enjoy sex and she changed the way other media focused on women and sexuality. Men thank you, too, Helen.

12 The mo is hot! A new book coming out from Toronto-based author Allan Peterkin, One Thousand Mustaches: A Cultural History of the Mo, looks at how the 'stache has undergone a cultural renaissance, mainly due to the international success of Movember. It's both a "lighthearted cultural history and an earnest style manual." Get it before you grow one.

Smooching

Plaque marks Obamas' first kiss

U.S. President Barack Obama kisses his wife Michelle Obama on stage at a campaign event at the Alliant Energy Amphitheater Wednesday in Dubuque, Iowa, during a campaign bus tour through the state.

The president first kissed his wife outside a Chicago ice-cream shop — and there's a plaque to prove it.

The owners of a Hyde Park shopping centre installed the 1,360-kilogram granite marker this week with a plaque reading: "On this site, President Barack Obama first kissed Michelle Obama."

There's a picture of the first couple and a quote from the president describing their first date.

The sweet smooch happened in 1989, when the future president treated the first-lady-to-be to ice cream at a Baskin-Robbins, which is now a Subway restaurant.

The Obamas will celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary this October.

It's up to Norman to save his town from a witch's curse. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

A spooky spectacle

ParaNorman. Kid's movie is decidedly dark, but doesn't have much to offer the really young or older crowds

Richard: Mark, it's been a long time since a kid's movie this dark has been unleashed on our unsuspecting youth. ParaNorman harkens back to a time when Disney used to make creepy cartoons like The Legend of Sleepy Hollow; before it was decided that kids shouldn't be exposed to anything except talking animals and stories about ecology. I loved it. It's strange and weird, and parents should understand it could induce nightmares in the really young, but it's good.

Mark: I can understand why you liked it, and it does seem like a throwback to a time before merchandised characters, but to me it felt like Tim Burton Lite. The test of an animated feature is whether a parent can enjoy it while their kids are watching it, and the answer is yes — but barely. It's surely no Shrek or Toy Story. It seems to skew pretty young, and I was restless throughout. But that may be about the kind of animation that was used — a digital, 3D, version of stop-motion cartoons. The look just didn't appeal to me, although it did contribute to the eeriness.

RC: I hear that, but I thought the 3D and scene composition gave it the look of beautiful, old View-Master slides. The stop motion work is lovingly handmade looking, giving the whole thing an organic coating that slicker, computer generated movies simply don't have. As for who this movie is for… well, I'm not exactly sure. Certainly not for little kids, but I thought parents and kids who enjoy getting mildly creeped-out, would find lots to like here.

MB: Matter of taste, I suppose. On another note, although you can't really talk about the acting in an animated film, you can talk about the voices. And there were two voices that need to be singled out for praise. The first is Jeff Garlin, from Curb Your Enthusiasm, whose aggrieved rasp was perfect for the father, and Casey Affleck, whose trippy drawl gave his jock bodybuilder a very original sound.

RC: I liked the voice work as well. I also enjoyed the writing. Lines like "Not believing in the afterlife is like not believing in astrology," are more sophisticated than the writing in your average kid's flick.

MB: I only wish there more of those lines!

Synopsis

Norman (voice of Kodi Smit-McPhee) is a 12-year-old who can see dead people. And talk to them, too. His unique gift, however, is unappreciated by his family, the townsfolk of Blithe Hollow and schoolmates, who call him AbNorman. He's an outsider, with only one friend, Neil (Tucker Albrizzi). When an old tale about a witch who cursed the town's forefathers to die a gruesome death and later rise from their graves comes true, Norman is the only person who can save the town.

Drama

Sparkle

Director. Salim Akil

Stars. Jordin Sparks, Whitney Houston

Sparkle is a clichéd remake of a musical about an aspiring talent (Jordin Sparks), her conservative mother (the late Whitney Houston) and her singing siblings as they become a rising force in the 1960s. A familiar showbiz tale of betrayal and redemption, there's little originality in this faux biography except maybe its awareness about what it really is: a posthumous swan song for the driving force behind it getting made in the first place — Whitney Houston.

STEVE GOW

Horror

The Awakening

Director. Nick Murphy

Stars. Rebecca Hall, Dominic West, Imelda Staunton

Bearing a similarity in set-up to Rodrigo Cortes' recent film Red Lights, The Awakening is a much more satisfying and eerie exercise in fright. The setting is post First World War England, and a young celebrity paranormal researcher (Rebecca Hall), who spends her time debunking charlatan hauntings, is summoned to a private school to put their ghost stories to rest. Problem is, there may be more truth than fiction to the goings on. When it comes to slow, understated and elegant psychological spook shows, the Brits have been masters, and The Awakening is no exception.

CHRIS ALEXANDER

Action

The Expendables 2

Director. Simon West

Stars. Sylvester Stallone, Jason Statham, Chuck Norris

You can't take a film like The Expendables 2 seriously. After all, any movie that begins with the most gratuitous body count sequence since Team America isn't taking itself seriously either. Although a plot is negligible, it's certainly beside the point. Instead, Sly Stallone and Company continue their winking homage to '80s action by amping up the destruction and slipping in cheesy one-liners. It's not going to win any awards but it is stupid fun for a Friday night.

STEVE GOW

Documentary

Fortunate Son

Director. Tony Asimakopoulos

Stars. Tony Asimakopoulos, Aristomenis Assimakopoulos, Vassiliki Assimakopoulos

Tony Asimakopoulos is the Fortunate Son, the only son of Greek immigrants in Montreal, who fled the family home to escape his parents' grip, fell into drug addiction and stayed away for 10 years. The film begins at a difficult time; Asimakopoulos has returned with new fiancée Natalie on his arm, to confront the family dynamic in hopes of healing his anger and anxiety. Add to the equation his mother's aggression and overwhelming need, his father's cancer ... it's a potent, volatile and painfully claustrophobic mix.

ANNE BRODIE

Comedy/Drama

And if We all Lived Together?

Director. Stéphane Robelin

Stars. Guy Bedos, Pierre Richard, Geraldine Chaplin, Jane Fonda, Claude Rich, Daniel Brühl

Five elderly, long-time friends move in together to avoid being institutionalized; they're losing their faculties little by little and it's their final rebellion against convention and boredom and their controlling adult children. It's also a major awakening as secrets are unearthed, battles erupt and putting in a swimming pool seems like pure genius. Adventure has come calling as they decline, but what a way to go. This funny and poignant film leaves no oversweet aftertaste.

ANNE BRODIE

Quoted

"That was the scene where she says, 'Was my life not enough of a cautionary tale for you?' I remember standing there and her saying that and going, 'Whoa. That's crazy.' Watching the movie now with her not here, it holds even more weight."

Jordin Sparks talking about watching her costar, the late Whitney Houston, perform on the set of the film Sparkle.

Robot & Frank.
Rookie director enlists the help of Oscar-nominated actor

scene@metronews.ca

There are three items you need in order to get your first movie on the big-screen: a good idea, a practical approach and, if possible, screen legend Frank Langella.

"He's on a roll," laughed director Jake Schreier about the 73-year-old actor, whom he cast in his debut feature Robot & Frank. Thrilled to have the Oscar-nominated star of Frost/Nixon in his movie, he humbly admits what he learned mainly about working with such a star was "to always get a legend like Frank Langella in your movie."

Making Robot & Frank has also been an education in other ways ever since it was a sideline short film project made for school back in 2003.

"It certainly evolved a lot," said Schreier about the futuristic fable of an elderly burglar that programs his caretaker robot to assist him on a jewel heist.

"There's a lot that needed to be added in terms of broadening the family relationship (and) adding the entire heist element so it's pretty different."

Apparition. Filmmaker weaves a scary script about manmade ghosts

Apparition opens next Friday. HANDOUT

A lifelong fan of the horror genre, first-time writer-director Todd Lincoln set out to make "a new horror film for a new decade" with Apparition, starring Ashley Greene and Sebastian Stan as a young married couple facing off against a manmade ghost.

So where did this storycome from?

I was doing my own digging on the weekend on different sites that I go to for fun — these sort of conspiracy or supernatural or paranormal type websites and I came across these different stories about experiments that people are doing to try to create a ghost or create an apparition. And this was dating back to the earlier mid-70s with an experiment called the Philip Experiment, where some neuropsychology students and teachers set out to test this idea that paranormal things only existed or happened because you believed that they would. Since then, in the following decades other people have carried on their versions of the experiment with new theories and new technology and gear. So I thought this was such a cool way into a horror film or a ghost story, the idea of people creating a ghost or an apparition. I pitched this little seed of an idea to Joel Silver and his guys there, and they loved it, really responded to it. This actually got green-lit off the second draft of the script, and it moved very quickly.

Do you spend all your weekends on those kinds of websites?

Not just the weekends, more like all the time (laughs). Look, I mean as a person, as a filmmaker I'm always searching for the truth — the truth in cinema, the truth in life, the truth in all these sort of unknown, unknowable, unexplained things. I'm just like a digger and a truth-seeker (laughs).

Kristen Bell fails to app-ease Grindr folk

Hit & Run. Star of car-chase comedy tried to get the company behind a hookup app on board to use their name in the film — they didn't believe it was her calling

Metro World News in Hollywood

Dax Shepard and Kristen Bell star in Hit & Run, which opens next Friday. HANDOUT

In the plot of Hit & Run, Dax Shepard's self-produced car chase comedy, there's an iPhone app that keeps popping up that bears a striking resemblance to the popular gay hook-up app Grindr. Only in the film the app — which uses geolocation technology to help users find similarly minded folks in their vicinity — goes by the name Pouncer. "They did not let us use their name. We did start with trying to have Grindr in the movie," Shepard explains. "It was a blessing that they said no because Pouncer is a lot funnier name than Grindr, so we were happy that it didn't work."

Shepard's co-star and fiancée, Kristen Bell, spearheaded the effort to get the folks behind the iPhone app on board, but that campaign was short-lived, as she explains. "They were initially flattered, and they read the script. But then I think that through talking to people in their office, somehow there was an insecurity that manifested of were we making fun of them? Which we weren't," she says. "We actually have friends that use Grindr, and it's hilarious that you can hook up with someone two feet away from you — whether it's gay or straight, it doesn't really matter. I think that they just felt like it was exploiting or making fun of them, and in the end they did not return our phone calls."

Quoted

"I just heard through the grapevine ... that they never really, truly believed it was (Bell)."

Dax Shepard on Grindr not answering Kristen Bell's request to use their name in the movie.

Shepard and Bell hardly need to prove their gay-friendly bona fides, though. The long-engaged couple has stated numerous times that they won't be tying the knot themselves until gay marriage is re-legalized in California. And in the script for Hit & Run, Bell's character takes Shepard's character to task for using needlessly homophobic language. So maybe it's really Grindr's loss.

"I think they're not happy now that they said no," Shepard offers.

As the couple learned recently, though, the Grindr folks might have stopped returning their calls for a very different reason.

"I just heard through the grapevine — through a friend of mine who's sleeping with one of the Grindr owners — that they never really, truly believed it was (Bell)," Shepard says.

"I did all the product placement because we selfishly thought, well maybe if I make the call maybe there's a chance that it might get a little further," Bell explains. "So I prayed and hoped that someone recognized the name, but in this case apparently they thought it was a joke."

‘Touchy-feely’ entertainment.
IFC’s Bullet in the Face makes good on its violent title

Alan Spencer, creator of the 1980s ABC police spoof Sledge Hammer!, has a new series with a title that’s a dead giveaway: Bullet in the Face isn’t playing by quaint 20th-century network standards.

Making a quick bow on IFC, with its six episodes split between Thursday and Friday (10 p.m. ET), Bullet in the Face mixes darkly madcap humour, a silly but sadistic antihero and lots of violence in a stew that even Spencer is hard-pressed to define.

“Maybe the world of graphic novels might be the only influence I could cite,” he said. Then again, he muses, he was interested in exploring the idea of a Euro-style thriller. And he sees a touch of The Prisoner in the fact it’s a short-run series.

“I almost wrote it stream-of-consciousness ... with a degree of self-indulgence. I was amusing myself,” said Spencer, who otherwise has been keeping busy as a script doctor.

The series stars Max Williams as Gunter Vogler, a sociopathic gun-for-hire who, in line with the title, is shot in the face as the story opens. Police arrange a transplant — why not? — to give Vogler the visage of a detective that he killed, then force him to work against the city’s mobsters.

Eddie Izzard and Eric Roberts play the bad guys and Kate Kelton is the gutsy moll who’s leading several lives, all of them dangerous.

From its frenzied start, Bullet in the Face gets — impressively — even more frenzied, with Williams, Izzard and Roberts unafraid to chow down on the surreal tale that Spencer has given them.

IFC is putting the series in the company of other “touchy-feely” entertainment, Spencer joked, with Fight Club and From Dusk Till Dawn nestled close by on the channel’s schedule.

While Sledge Hammer! laboured under broadcast restrictions, Bullet in the Face has been given free rein on contemporary cable, he said.

Is Spencer uneasy about glorifying violence by dressing it in satiric trappings and making it cool?

“No, because I’ve put it in a heightened fantasy world. It’s not good versus evil — It’s evil versus evil, and you have to decide who to latch on to,” Spencer replied.

Finale for Political Animals

After watching Sigourney Weaver take charge as a no-nonsense U.S. secretary of state on Political Animals, who wouldn’t want to see the towering tour-de-force take office? Now sober, singer Powter getting over bad days

New album. B.C. troubadour trying to put things in a more positive frame and Turn on the Lights

He had a bad day. Many of them, actually.

But British-Columbia-bred troubadour Daniel Powter, whose 2006 Grammy-nominated hit single Bad Day became a global hard-knocks anthem, has turned his life around and is singing a more positive tune with the newly released album Turn on the Lights. The pop-rock singer-songwriter says the title of the sunny new disc reflects a brightness that's permeated his life since he kicked a drug and alcohol addiction, went through a divorce, got engaged to his former personal trainer, and had a second child. Now two years sober, he says he feels like a different person than he was when Bad Day was the Billboard Top Hot 100 song of 2006, as well as the theme song for a Coca-Cola ad and American Idol's fifth season.

"A lot of people will say that they got sober for other people, but I got sober for myself," a chiseled and tanned Powter, who counts surfing and yoga among his hobbies, said in an interview.

"I was so sick of myself, the redundancy of my life, and my patterns were so predictable. If I put a graph of my behaviour I could see: Things are tough, resentment, resentment, OK, I'm getting angry, I'm angry, I'm angry — use. You could just see it all the time, and when ... I wanted to really change my life, I had to learn how to have a more positive way of dealing with resentment and anger and things like that. And once I learned how to do that, then everything started turning around for me."

Powter admitted he was "in a really dark place" before he got sober.

"I was on the fast track to kind of going down the wrong road and just ending up dead, which I would have, eventually, if I'd continued the way I was."

A lot of the anger that was fuelling his addiction stemmed from trauma in his childhood in Vernon, B.C., but he's since learned how to deal with it, he said.

He's also had to learn how to write songs "from a different place," which wasn't easy.

"I always wrote from a lot of pain. Even the Bad Day record, it was easy for me to galvanize a lot of energy when you have a lot of pain in your life." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sheen looking for redemption

Winning? Cable network FX has pledged to air 90 more episodes of actor's new show if ratings are strong

Charlie Sheen says he's looking forward to getting the big phone call that would prove his naysayers wrong and make him a prime-time TV fixture once again.

Next Thursday marks the broadcast of the 10th episode of his new comedy Anger Management on the U.S. cable network FX (the show's pilot aired on CTV following the closing ceremony of the London Olympics and will have its official Canadian premiere on Sept. 11).

Coming off being ousted from the top-rated Two and a Half Men and his subsequent public breakdown, Sheen picked Anger Management — which is based on the 2003 film of the same name — as his big comeback project, hoping to make people forget about his admittedly self-destructive and wacky "tiger blood" period.

FX agreed to a 10-episode trial run of Anger Management and pledged to air 90 more if ratings were strong enough.

Critics haven't been overly kind and ratings have dropped since Anger Management's record-breaking U.S. premiere.

But FX president John Landgraf has hinted that the show hit the threshold it needed to get the big renewal.

"As with any comedy, I think it's got more growth in it creatively, I think it's still developing, but generally speaking, I'm real happy," Landgraf told reporters last month in Beverly Hills, Calif., during a Television Critics Association press tour session.

"I would say the odds are overwhelming that it will ultimately earn that renewal."

Sheen says he'd love to hear something a little more official from Landgraf but understands that he may have to wait until next week — after ratings are in for the 10th episode — for the confirmation.

She's electronic

Girl Talk. Gregg Gillis talks about the rise of dub-step and the shift in musical taste in the last few years

PAT HEALY
Metro World News

Gregg Gillis prides himself on keeping up with the latest trends in music.

But that's basically part of his job description. The music he makes as Girl Talk depends on mashing up the music that other people have made, and his audience depends on him to take whatever they're currently listening to and pair it with classic songs that they had probably forgotten about.

But in the time since the last Girl Talk album came out in 2010, a lot has changed in the pop landscape.

Specifically, a few musical genres have risen from the underground into the mainstream. Sure, people listened to electronic dance music, but it wasn't called EDM, as it is becoming more widely known, and it certainly wasn't filling the big arenas that it has been lately. And in November of 2010, when Girl Talk's All Day came out, Skrillex's breakthrough EP, Scary Monsters and Nice Sprites had only been out for a few weeks.

But just because you can dance to all of this music doesn't mean you should lump Girl Talk in with dub-step and EDM.

"I'm happy to witness the shift, but I've still worked hard to be isolated," says Gillis.

"I've always wanted to think where what I'm doing is electronic music, it's kind of presented more like a traditional show where there's a beginning and end, and doesn't last all night."

Killswitch. Looking to re-Engage with its former lead vocalist

Jesse Leach's voice sounds profoundly calm. It's hard to imagine that Leach, the lead vocalist for metalcore heavyweight Killswitch Engage, is only hours away from unleashing his guttural vocals to the tune of thousands of screaming headbangers in Pittsburgh.

"That is my therapy session," Leach says of performing live. "That's my way of releasing the demons."

For Leach, the original vocalist for Killswitch Engage, the path has not been without its trials. In 2002, he left the band, following the release of Alive or Just Breathing, the album that put Killswitch Engage on the map.

Returning

Rejoining the fold

- Leach. Since rejoining Killswitch Engage, Leach has sung for the band's homecoming in Massachusetts and has played shows from France to Austria to here in Canada.

"I was dealing with depression, just being newly married in my life and not knowing how to handle myself on the road," Leach admits. "I had to get away."

In February, Killswitch Engage announced on Facebook that Leach would return.

Although he has been involved in other musical projects since 2002, the time away from Killswitch relieved Leach of the pressures of fame and allowed him to mature. He cites strained vocal chords as part of his downward spiral. Now he proudly refers to his voice as his "instrument" and says because of his care, he has been able to sing through sickness twice on a recent tour.

"I'm not second-guessing myself anymore," Leach says.

Humphries' lawyers get crafty

MONICA WEYMOUTH
scene@metronews.ca

Kris Humphries is engineering a you-hurt-my-feelings lawsuit against former wife Kim Kardashian, and in the process has to serve her current boyfriend, Kanye West, a subpoena.

So how do you corner a guy with an entourage on the payroll? In a stroke of enviable genius, Humphries' lawyer sent the papers over in a Nordstrom box.

If a Cinnabon box lands at the Metro office, we're going to have some very tough decisions to make.

Humphries' lawyer engineered a sneak attack by trying to serve a subpoena on West by putting it in the Nordstrom box and sending it to Kardashian's house.

Kim's lawyer, Laura Wasser, told the judge in the divorce case about the ploy during a hearing that is still going on.

Kim has already racked up $250,000 in attorney's fees, yet it's unclear exactly what Humphries wants out of this.

Wasser said she's heard the reports that Humphries and his lawyers want to put reality TV on trial, and there seems to be evidence to back that up.

Wasser noted that Humphries has served Kris Jenner with a subpoena and NBC Universal and Bunim/Murray, which produces the Kardashian reality shows.

Katie wants Tom to stay in daughter's life

Katie Holmes and Tom Cruise are set to reunite for the first time since Holmes filed for divorce when their daughter, Suri, starts school in New York City after Labor Day, according to Radar Online.

"Tom and Katie have been speaking on the telephone regarding Suri, and Katie has been very supportive of Tom wanting to be there when Suri goes to her new school for the first time," a source says.

"It's a big moment in Suri's life and Katie wants Tom to be a part of that. Of course, there will be security concerns and Tom doesn't want to disrupt other parents and students at the school with his presence, which means he could very well slip in and out via a back entrance.

"Katie doesn't want Suri to suffer because of their divorce and both parents are truly putting the needs of their little girl ahead of their own feelings."

When winemakers get it on in the winery, it isn't always a monogamous relationship. It's often a twosome, threesome or even moresome.

Before you start with the emails, I'm talking grape combinations here, people.

The blending of grapes to create distinctive wine styles dates back to the origins of winemaking. In fact, most European wines are unions of different varietals.

Europe is so blasé about blending that many countries don't even put the names of the grapes on their labels — preferring to play up the region where a wine comes from and who makes it.

When newbies like Australia, Chile and California entered the wine scene in the late 1980s, they saw bragging about their fruit combos as a selling point. They, and other New World countries, have been at the forefront of a wave of funky grape marriages.

Down Under's Hardy's 2009 Butcher's Gold 'Chronicle No. 3' Shiraz Sangiovese ($15 - $16.99) has a mouthful of a name to go along with its mouthful of flavour.

Sangiovese is the traditional grape of Italy's Chianti region and its bright cherry fruit works wonders with the black spiciness of the shiraz.

Tuna livens up grill as summer's end nears

Grilled Tuna Steaks with Mango Herb Salsa. With fall about a month away, make the most of outdoor cooking with this exciting and easy dish

Summer makes us long for the grill. But by the end of the season, even our favourite burgers and dogs can feel a little bit tired.

So to keep your grilling interesting, here is a speedy grilled tuna dish that packs tons of big, bold flavours.

For this recipe, it's best to use tuna steaks, which are thick, meaty pieces cut from the fish in the opposite direction than a fillet.

You also could use salmon steaks, which often include the bone (which helps the flesh hold together on the grill). Swordfish also would work in this recipe.

Keep the prep simple with just a light coating of oil and a bit of salt and pepper. This also allows the flavour of the tuna to shine.

But to ensure you can also taste the fresh flavours of summer, top the tuna with a cross between a fruit salsa and an herby chimichurri.

It goes together in about 2 minutes with the help of a food processor.

1. Heat the grill to high.

2. In a food processor, combine the parsley, oregano, mint, 2 tablespoons of the olive oil, the red wine vinegar, garlic, red pepper flakes, and the lemon zest and juice. Process until well chopped, scraping down the bowl as needed. Add the mango and pulse once or twice to combine and lightly chop. Season with salt and pepper, then set aside.

3. Rub the tuna steaks on all sides with the remaining 1 tablespoon olive oil, then season them with salt and pepper. Grill the steaks for 2 to 3 minutes per side for medium-rare. Serve topped with the salsa. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

- 1/4 cup fresh mint leaves
- 3 tbsp olive oil, divided
- 3 tbsp red wine vinegar

- 2 mangos, peeled, pitted and diced
- Salt and ground black pepper
- Four 6-oz tuna steaks

Heat and sweet meet in mango salad

This fruit salad from Arthur Potts Dawson's cookbook, Eat Your Vegetables, pairs cooling cucumber and refreshing watermelon and mango with spicy red and green chilies.

There is also contrast between the sweetness of the fruit and the savoury flavours of the sauce. The result is a delicious and healthy combination with far more flavour than your typical fruit salad.

Using both chilies called for in this recipe makes for a dish with real kick. The heat is nicely moderated by the sweet watermelon and mango. But if you don't like things spicy, back down to half the amount of chilies.

1. In a large bowl, combine the cucumber, watermelon, mango, chopped mint and red and green chilies. Mix gently.

2. In a liquid measuring cup, whisk together the fish sauce, mirin and olive oil. Drizzle over the salad, then mix gently. Season with salt and pepper. Serve garnished with mint leaves. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS /RECIPE ADAPTED FROM ARTHUR POTTS DAWSON'S EAT YOUR VEGETABLES, MITCHELL BEAZLEY/ OCTOPUS, 2012

Ingredients

- 2 cups peeled, seeded and chopped cucumber

- 2 cups diced fresh mango

- 1 red chili, thinly sliced
- 1 green chili, thinly sliced
- 1 tbsp fish sauce
- 1 tbsp mirin
- 1/3 cup olive oil
- salt and black pepper

100 iconic years of Julia

Biography. The life of one of the food world's most memorable and endearing figures is documented in a new book release

The food world lost one of its most memorable icons in 2004, but now a new biography on Julia Child has been released to coincide with what would have been her 100th birthday on Aug. 15.

Dearie: The Remarkable Life of Julia Child by Bob Spitz (Random House of Canada, hardcover, $33) takes readers beyond the image of this tall, eccentric woman with a funny voice and establishes her as one of the most distinctive cultural individuals of the 20th century.

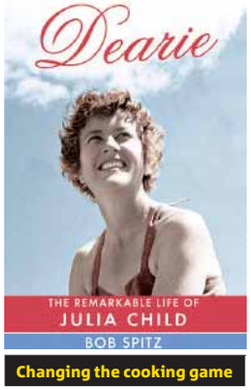
This in-depth, intimate tale is full of fresh information about Child from her childhood up until her death.

Spitz gleaned an amazing amount of material from her private papers, scrapbooks, letters, keepsakes and notes, family, friends and colleagues, many of whom "were still around who were eager to talk," he says in an interview.

"I had complete access to all her original television scripts and her notes for her bestselling cookbook, Mastering the Art of French Cooking, says Spitz, a New York award-winning writer whose previous biography was The Beatles.

He says her journals also shed light on her job working in Washington's Office of Strategic Services during the Second World War.

It was during one of her postings in Asia that she met Paul Child, another civil servant. They were married in 1946.



Changing the cooking game

"Watching Julia cook with competence and ease, viewers were convinced that they could too, and American cooking was never the same.

Bob Spitz — Author of Dearie: The Remarkable Life of Julia Child

The archives at the Schlesinger Library at Harvard University have all of his letters. Child wrote them every day from 1940 until 1974 and they contain vivid descriptions of his and Julia's lives.

Spitz was in Italy in 1992 on assignment for a magazine when he got a call from a friend at the Italian Trade Commission asking him if he could escort a woman who would be travelling alone in Sicily.

"I said, 'I don't do that kind of work,' but then they told me it was Julia Child. Of course I accepted," he said, chuckling.

For several weeks, Child and Spitz crisscrossed the island — "eating of course," he writes in the book.

"She was exactly like her television persona: warm, funny, outgoing, whip-smart, incorrigible and most of all real."

He asked her if he could write her biography and she agreed. "Julia had been disappointed by an earlier biography and knew I was eager to capture her spirit and do a thorough account."

When the Childs returned to the U.S. after the war, Paul was posted to Paris by the federal government.

He introduced his wife to French cuisine.

Julia was transfixed. Never a good cook, having been brought up in a wealthy home in Pasadena, Calif., she embraced it with fervour, taking lessons at the famed Cordon Bleu culinary arts school.

It was there and from her new friends, chefs and others involved with French cuisine that she developed an obvious talent in the kitchen.

Food became her raison d'etre and she and Paul would dine out often in Paris restaurants, shop in the quaint markets and entertain frequently so Julia could treat her friends to her newfound love.

Returning to the U.S., she was determined to encourage people to learn how to cook the French way and as a result she carved out another career, teaching cuisine on television.

At the age of 50, she became host of The French Chef, the first nation-wide cooking show.

It was the first time a woman was seen as a professional in the kitchen. Frustrated housewives welcomed the larger-than-life personality and showmanship of this outspoken woman on their television screens.

"Julia believed in high-quality ingredients and meals that were well prepared and nothing packaged," says Spitz. He says that before The French Chef aired on PBS, many housewives sought convenience in the kitchen and were in thrall to packaged and frozen food, TV dinners, fish sticks, converted rice, Jell-O moulds and iceberg lettuce.

"Watching Julia cook with competence and ease, viewers were convinced that they could too, and American cooking was never the same."

"If she was still alive, she would be thrilled that so many people are concentrating on good food," says Spitz.

One amusing story he recalls is when he and Child returned from Italy.

"When we got back to the U.S. she told me she had a yen for a particular restaurant," he says. "It was McDonald's and we each had a Big Mac and large fries. She was in heaven."

And no doubt, as she was about to devour the burger, she uttered her famous words: "Bon appetit!"

Negotiations on ice

NHL. Uneasiness grows and 2012-13 season in doubt as lockout deadline nears

The first tense moments of the NHL's collective bargaining negotiations have arrived.

With Gary Bettman and Donald Fehr not scheduled to sit across from one another until the middle of next week and the sides unable to even agree on the core issues that need to be addressed, a sense of uneasiness has suddenly enveloped the talks.

After Wednesday's session, in which the NHL dismissed the union's initial proposal, Fehr set off for pre-scheduled player meetings in Chicago. The union boss will also oversee a session with players in Kelowna, B.C., before returning to Toronto and resuming CBA discussions on Aug. 22.

At that point, the league and the NHL Players' Association will have just 24 days left to reach a new agreement and avoid a lockout.

But where do they start? There is very little common ground between the proposals each side has put forth and neither seems particularly willing to move off its current position.

"What the issues are and how they get solved and how deep the issues go are something that we're not yet on the same page about," Bettman said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the hockey world remains on hold — and many are starting to brace for the worst. The Detroit Red Wings announced Thursday that they're cancelling their annual September prospects tournament in Traverse City, Mich., due to the "uncertainty" surrounding the CBA.

Eight teams had been scheduled to participate.

"We have determined that it is in everyone's best interest to cancel this year's tournament," Red Wings GM Ken Holland said in a statement.

Sub-committees from the league and union gathered Thursday to discuss non-core economic issues such as travel, ice conditions and training camp. Both sides seemed encouraged about the status of those talks, but as deputy NHL commissioner Bill Daly pointed out: "I don't think that's where this CBA is going to get cut or not."

In simple terms, the owners want to pay players less — much less. Despite the fact the NHL's revenues grew from $2.2 billion before the 2004-05 lockout to $3.3 billion last season, a number of teams are still struggling.

The financial success of the wealthiest franchises over the last seven years ended up hurting the poorer ones.

That's because the salary cap was tied to overall hockey-related revenues and rose dramatically from $39 million in 2005-06 to $64.3 million last season, bringing the salary floor (the minimum teams must spend) up along with it. If next season was played under the current system, the cap would have been set at $70.2 million and the floor would have been $54.2 million.

However, a new deal needs to be put in place before the NHL resumes operations.

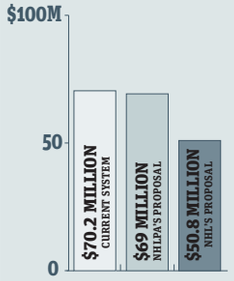
Salary-cap gap

Here's a look at how the salary cap would be impacted by the current CBA along with proposals from the NHL and NHLPA for the 2012-13 season:



Far from floored

$14.2M

There is a salary-cap floor in the NHL— the minimum a team can spend on players. The current floor is $54.2 million. The NHLPA proposes a $53–million dollar floor while the league made a $38.8-million offer, for a gap of $14.2 million between the two sides.

Campoli on NHL: 'They just want more money'

A day after hearing NHL commissioner Gary Bettman say a "wide gap" remained in collective bargaining negotiations, players were still upset that the owners quickly dismissed their initial proposal.

"The industry's grown a billion dollars since (the lockout) and basically they just want more money," Chris Campoli, a member of the NHLPA's negotiating committee, said Thursday.

"I thought in our proposal we made a step and considerable concessions to them," he added. "Frankly, it was a little disappointing to see the response yesterday and the view they have on it."

Campoli was one of three NHL players who took part in Thursday's subcommittee meetings, which covered secondary issues.

An unrestricted free-agent defenceman who spent last season in Montreal, Campoli has emerged as one of the strongest voices among the players.

The players offered to keep a hard salary cap and put a drag on their salaries in exchange for an expanded revenue-sharing system — but Bettman and the owners weren't in favour of it. THE CANADIAN PRESS

"We want to fix the systematic issues they have with the way things are run and I think we're being more than fair."

Perfection in an imperfect situation

MLB. Hernandez relishes perfect game; Mariners relish his contributions to the franchise

Gloves went flying into the air. Players screamed and celebrated, bouncing around the grass with unabashed joy.

Even in Jackson, Tenn., Felix Hernandez's perfect game against the Tampa Bay Rays on Wednesday was reason for celebration.

Sure there was a bit more of a personal connection for the Jackson Generals than just being the Double-A affiliate of the Mariners. Hernandez's older brother, Moises, is a pitcher for the Generals.

But the reaction nearly 2,500 miles away from Safeco Field speaks to Hernandez's importance to the Mariners organization.

Hernandez has a Cy Young Award. He's now joined the pitching elite with just the 23rd perfect game in baseball history.

What's next?

Felix Hernandez celebrates Wednesday's perfect game in Seattle. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Trying to make the Mariners relevant again for more than just the efforts of their pitching ace.

"Just keep throwing the way I've been throwing," Hernandez said. "Just do my job. Try and help my team to win. That's what is next."

From the time Hernandez made his major-league debut in August 2005 as a curly-haired 19-year-old, the question has been "when," not "if" he would ever throw at least a no-hitter.

He nearly did in 2007, taking a no-hitter into the eighth inning at Fenway Park, finishing with a brilliant one-hit effort against the Red Sox. In 2009 against Texas, Hernandez carried a no-hitter into the eighth inning before Nelson Cruz hit a solo home run.

Those near-misses only increased Hernandez's desire to achieve perfection.

"This guy deserved the odds to fall in his favour, for sure," Seattle catcher John Jaso said.

Hernandez has stuck around in Seattle through a pair of 101-loss seasons since his debut seven years ago and countless days where he has been on his game and the Mariners offence failed to give him any support.

"The intangibles for me are what separates him," Seattle manager Eric Wedge said. "No doubt about it he's got great talent but there are a lot of players at this level that have great talent.... The teammate that he is, the leadership that he brings, the toughness and the consistency that he brings with all that, that's what separates him." THE ASSOCIATED PRESSW

Did Argos dump Boyd for bucks?

CFL EXTRA POINTS
Dan Toth
toronto@metronews.ca

Forthcoming bonuses could have made it easier to for Double Blue to jettison top rusher; LaPolice's decision to change QBs could prove costly in Winnipeg; Mitchell's arm-bar has no place in B.C. or CFL

Pictures by The Canadian Press/The Hamilton Spectator

Argonauts

Running back Cory Boyd may have been a bad teammate and a failure at picking up blitzes, but it could have been salary cap issues that sent him packing. With Ricky Ray on course for a 5,000-yard passing season and presumably big bonuses, the Argos had to shed salary somewhere.

Blue Bombers

Shocker on shock street! Bombers coach Paul LaPolice is indecisive, switching to Joey Elliott at QB ahead of Alex Brink for Thursday's clash with Hamilton. At 1-5, you have to do something, but the Bombers blindsided Brink when they needed stability.

Stampeders

The battered and bruised Stamps offensive line welcomed the un-retired Obby Kahn this week, and just in time, too. The 31-year-old Kahn, who hung 'em up after last season in Winnipeg, will fill in nicely after injuries to Steve Myddelton and Na'Shan Goddard.

Tiger-Cats

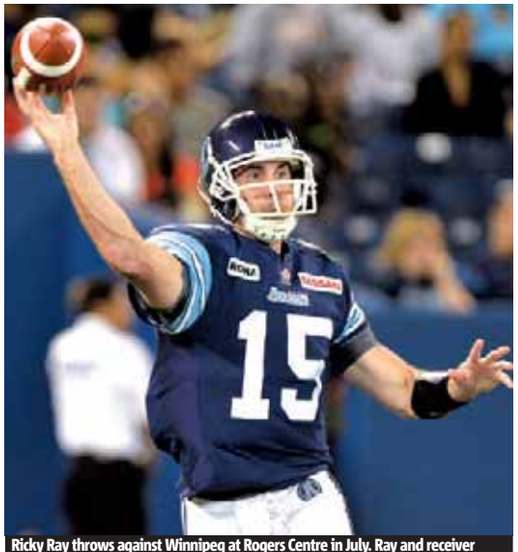
Hamilton defensive coordinator Casey Creehan had to change plans to cope with new Winnipeg starter Joey Elliott after assuming his squad would face Alex Brink. In Creehan's favour is the fact both QBs were in the Bombers colours when Creehan was coaching in Winnipeg.

Roughriders

Three straight losses and Riders fans have gone from euphoria to panic. But after going a CFL-worst 5-13 last season, a 3-3 mark so far in 2012 indicates this year's club is miles ahead of last season, especially considering their losses have been by slim margins.

Lions

Khalif Mitchell is sticking with his story that it was a "football play" that caused Eskimo Simeon Rottier's hyperextended arm last month. Truth is, it was a vicious act and the league was right to reject Michell's appeal of his two-game ban.



Ricky Ray throws against Winnipeg at Rogers Centre in July. Ray and receiver Maurice Mann played together for three years. RICK MADONIK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

No rest for the injured: Mann vies to crack Argos roster

CFL. Back from a freak injury, veteran WR hopes for chance to recreate chemistry with QB Ricky Ray

While some Argos went home to visit family and friends during the bye week, receiver Maurice Mann remained in town, working out, strengthening his injured leg and preparing for the call for him to play.

"I didn't earn a vacation," Mann, 29, said.

The six-year CFL veteran once caught passes for three seasons (2007-09) from quarterback Ricky Ray when they were in Edmonton. As Toronto head coach Scott Milanovich drew up his playbook in the off-season, Mann had the chance to be a big-time playmaker in the Argos' pass-oriented offence.

But a freak fall on a high school track outside the end zone just three days into training camp left a nasty leg gash near his knee and 30 stitches.

Dontrelle Inman replaced him and six games into the season, the rookie has a lock on Mann's spot.

But Mann has been practising hard this week. There's a chance he could play in Calgary on Saturday but for that to happen, the team will have to find a way to add an import to the squad to make the import-non import ratio work.

Quoted

"When I do get my opportunity, hopefully I can show a little something extra that sets me apart." Maurice Mann

The six-foot-two, 190-pound Mann caught 73 passes for 917 yards and five TDs in 2009 in Edmonton.

"I still feel I have a shot here in Toronto. But it's not about me. Ricky can make anybody look great," Mann said.

Milanovich said he's handled the situation like a pro.

"I'm sure he has his moments where it's tough because he wants to be in there," Milanovich said. "He was having such a great camp. Who knows, if Mo doesn't get hurt you might not know Dontrelle right now."

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Indulge your desires today — every last one of them. Don't worry about what others might say. Life is too short not to have fun while you can. Friends and family will have fun being close to you too.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
What you want and what you get are likely to be two different things today. There is no point getting uptight about it because life is what it is. Just this once, let other people have their way.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Some surprising things will happen over the next 24 hours and they will be the kind of things you enjoy. The more you are on the move and meeting people, the more surprises, and the more fun, you will have.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Today's new moon will make it easy for you to talk about business and start deals that could one day make you rich. Remember: What you act on now will bring the rewards that you crave tomorrow.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You have done more than enough for other people. Now it is time to do something for yourself. The new moon in your birth sign will inspire you to try something new, something a little — or even a lot — outrageous!

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
What you think and feel today will leave you in no doubt at all what your next move must be, and if you act on what your instincts tell you then success of some kind will not be far behind. Be bold.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Work with other people to get things done. You may be quite capable of completing a task on your own but you will also be left with the nagging feeling that you could and should have done more.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You need to decide, once and for all, what your career path is going to be. Deep down you already know what you want to do with your life, so all you really have to do is commit to it, then act.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
A new moon in your fellow Fire sign of Leo means you won't let anyone or anything come between you and your goal. This is no time for questions — just get on and do what has to be done.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
A debt of some kind needs to be paid. Pay it now while you are in a position to do so. It does not have to be a financial debt — most likely you need to repay someone for their emotional support.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
It may look as if other people have the upper hand but do they really have the power to tell you what to do? No, they don't! Stand up for yourself today. Refuse to do anything that goes against your interests.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Do what you have to do to fit in with a loved one's plans, even though there are other things you would rather be working on. If you help them today they will give you a free hand over the weekend.
